

Get on your bike!

Watch your inbox for free cycle training at Belfast campus this Autumn. Cycling cuts carbon emissions, saves money, increases fitness and reduces stress levels. For more information, see ulster.ac.uk/sustainability/sustainable-travel/cycling

Top Tip!

Visiting the beach this summer? Before you put up the windbreak consider a 5 minute beach clean. 5 minute beach clean is taking off with holiday makers all around the world and you can join them, post your pics on Facebook @5minutebeachcleanup

A big thank you and well done to everyone!

Green Impact has had a very successful year with 14 teams gaining accreditation and completing 336 green actions as a direct result of the Green Impact programme.

The programme trained 21 students as IEMA approved auditors.

Our programme concluded with an awards ceremony;

1
Gold Award

6
Silver
Awards

7
Bronze
Awards

See the photos here; flickr.com/photos/universityofulster/albums/72157681412228154

New This Year

This year NUS won the UNESCO prize for 'Education for Sustainable Development', enabling them to pass on the prize fund to Green Impact teams through micro-grant applications. NUS hopes to continue with micro-grants next year, why not have a think about the environmental improvement you could make in your area with the help of a micro-grant?

Champion Chat

Do you know a colleague that would make a great Green Impact Champion? Encouraging them to take part completes Gold action G003 of your workbook, and collaborating with them on a joint project completes Gold action G004. A great reason to bring a friend to the launch of next years' programme in September 2017.

Have a great summer and see you all at the launch for Green Impact 2017/18 in September!

nus

green impact